Rona Bennett and Lan Chung, designers of the popular local fashion brand Fighting Eel, have introduced their first bridal collection.

Many of Fighting Eel's bridal designs are also suitable for later use as evening wear.

The simple, chic and romantic dresses and gowns are inspired by the thousands of out-of-state and international brides who come to Hawai'i for their dream wedding.

"We get so many requests for gowns because of the popularity of destination weddings," Bennett said.

The collection is suitable for both brides and bridesmaids. The simplicity of the designs and wearability of the modal fabric make them appropriate for post-wedding streetwear, always a plus for the bridal party.

Fighting Eel bridesmaid dresses come in several colors, with multiple styles that can be mixed and matched to complement each individual. Dresses and gowns are priced at $150 to $250.
